

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

A large, vigorous area of low pressure passing just north of Scotland on Monday. Fronts on the low's western flank will bring heavy rain late Monday and for much of Tuesday, before clearing to showers during the evening. 30-40 mm of rain is expected widely across much of northwest Scotland, with 60 mm possible in the Northwest Highlands.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 18:00 on Mon, 01st Feb 2016 until 21:00 on Tue, 02nd Feb 2016

Showers will merge to longer periods of occasionally heavy rain across the Northwest of Scotland from Monday evening, with the wet weather expected to continue overnight and for much of Tuesday leading to localised flooding. Eventually drier weather will spread from the northwest towards mid-evening.

Please be aware of the risk of some travel disruption.

Note that severe gale to storm force winds are also expected for which a separate warning has been issued.
